

The Sandon School invited me to open their CPD day in February 2019 with this workshop.

Developing trust– the vital element in the teaching-learning relationship

Outcomes:

- Consideration of the significance of trust to engagement in learning
- Explored some strategies that can support strengthening of trust in established relationships.

An interactive workshop full of practical activities about behavioural strategies that adults, who teach and support learning, can use to engage learners who struggle to trust.

Delegates consider the significance of trust to engagement in learning and take away a range of evidence-based strategies that can support strengthening of trust in established relationships.

Here’s what they said about the training after the event:

Key take away thoughts:

